

A low-angle, upward-looking photograph of a modern skyscraper with a glass facade. The building's lines converge towards the top of the frame, creating a strong sense of height and perspective. The sky is a clear, pale blue. A solid teal rectangular box is overlaid on the right side of the image, containing the title text in white.

This report presents key statistics concerning offenders in prison - both on remand or sentenced - and offenders serving community sentences and orders. This includes the most recent figures up to 30 June 2019.

The historical trend data is reported from 1986 for offenders serving prison and community sentences, and 1998 for offenders on remand (remand data prior to 1998 is affected by quality issues).

On 30 June 2019, 39,154 individuals were under Corrections' management. Collectively, these individuals were serving 44,750 sentences and orders.

The data provided in this report is aggregated to an offender/ sentence/ start date level. That means that when an offender starts two sentences of the same type on the same day, they will only be counted as one. However, when an offender starts two sentences of different types on the same day, or two sentences on different days they will be counted as two.

Some of the statistics contained in this report can be obtained electronically by going to the Statistics New Zealand website (<http://nzdotstat.stats.govt.nz/wbos/index.aspx>) and clicking on the link to "Corrections".

The NZ.Stat site allows researchers and other users to view and download the information from the Corrections datasets. Users can select variables and customise table layouts, then download tables in Excel or CSV format.

In addition, Corrections puts some unit record data into the Statistics New Zealand Integrated Data Infrastructure. This allows Corrections and other researchers to combine offender information with data from a range of organisations (such as health and education data) to provide the insights government needs to improve social and economic outcomes for New Zealanders. With all identifying information removed, integrated data gives a safe view across government so agencies can deliver better services to the public and ensure investment is made where it's needed most. Integrated data is particularly useful to help address complex social issues such as crime and vulnerable children.

Additional information about the data that Corrections puts into the IDI can be found here:
<https://www.stats.govt.nz/integrated-data/integrated-data-infrastructure/>

The population held in prison are made up of persons either remanded in custody awaiting a trial or sentencing, or prisoners who have been convicted of offences and received a prison sentence.

Graphs in this section refer to the total number of offenders in custody on 30 June of each year.

Sentenced prisoners have been convicted of a crime and given a sentence of imprisonment. An imposed sentence may be short-term where the total sentence is 24 months or less; the offender is released after serving half of the sentence. A long-term sentence is of fixed length over 24 months; the offender is eligible to be considered for release on Parole after one-third of the sentence has been served, or must be released when the full term of the sentence has been served. An indeterminate sentence is a sentence for life; the offender may be released but remains on Life Parole and may be recalled to prison.

Legislative changes have meant that community offenders are serving a wider range of sentence types since 2007.

In 2005 there were only 2 different types of community sentences available: Supervision and Community Work.

The Sentencing Amendment Act 2007 introduced Home Detention as a stand-alone sentence, Community Detention and Intensive Supervision. These legislative changes are reflected clearly in the following graphs.

The number of community sentences being served in June 2007 was 23,704. This has increased by 16 percent to 27,471 in June 2019.

The 3 new community sentences (SAA2007) accounted for 27 percent of all community sentences in June 2019.

The number of distinct offenders serving a community sentence has risen from 21,340 in 2007 to 22,379 in 2019. This is an increase of 5 percent.

Community work only is the single largest imposed community sentence, accounting for 37 percent of all sentencing combinations in 2019.

Supervision was the second largest, accounting for 22 percent of all sentencing combinations.

Community work and Supervision being served at the same time accounted for 10 percent of all sentencing combinations.

Home Detention is a sentence that requires an offender to remain at an approved residence at all times under electronic monitoring and close supervision by a probation officer. It can help offenders to maintain family relationships, keep working or actively seek work, attend training or rehabilitative programmes. Sentences may range in length from 14 days to 12 months.

Home Detention sentences were introduced during the latter part of 2007.

In June 2005, there were 4 different types of community orders.

Release to Home Detention (sometimes referred to as Back End Home Detention) was phased out in 2007, after the Sentencing Amendment Act 2007 gave provision for Home Detention to be a sentence in its own right.

The number of offenders on Release on Conditions has dropped from 59 percent of all offenders on community orders in 2005 to 39 percent of all offenders on community orders in 2019. This is primarily due to the introduction of Post Detention Conditions and Returning Offender Orders for eligible offenders who are returning from an overseas jurisdiction and subject to standard conditions as per the Parole Act 2002. Other reasons include the increase in the imposed aggregate duration of prison sentences and the number of prisoners who are now no longer eligible for ROC due to their prison sentence being longer than 2 years.

An Extended Supervision order (ESO) is used to both monitor and manage the long-term risk posed by a high risk sex offender or a very high risk violent offender who is back in the community. ESOs are imposed by the court. Offenders on Extended Supervision Orders can be monitored for between 5 and 10 years at a time following their release from prison.

To date, all but one offender who serve an Extended Supervision Order have been Male.

For privacy reasons and low volumes allowing possible identification of offenders, reporting by offence types has not been provided. Therefore offence type reporting in this section is disaggregated into sexual and non-sexual only.

The Returning Offender (Management and Information) Act provides legislation for the serving of a Determination Notice to returning offenders which means the offender is subject to a Returning Offender Order.

The Returning Offender Order provides the ability for standard release conditions to be imposed for a period dependant on the length of imprisonment imposed in the overseas jurisdiction. Returning Offender Orders can be imposed for a duration of between six months and five years.

Legislation enabling the monitoring of Returning Offenders was enacted in 2016.

Sentenced prisoners have been convicted of a crime and have received a sentence of imprisonment. An imposed sentence may be short-term where the total sentence is 24 months or less; the offender is released after serving half of the sentence. A long-term sentence is of fixed length over 24 months; the offender is eligible to be considered for release on Parole after one-third of the sentence has been served, or must be released when the full term of the sentence has been served. An indeterminate sentence is a sentence for life; the offender may be released but remains on Life Parole and may be recalled to prison.

Graphs in this section refer to prisoners who started a custodial sentence in each financial year. If a prisoner starts more than one aggregate sentence in the year each one is counted.

Legislative changes have meant that community offenders are serving a wider range of sentence types since 2007.

In 2005 there were only 2 different types of community sentences available: Supervision and Community Work.

The Sentencing Amendment Act 2007 introduced Home Detention as a stand-alone sentence, Community Detention and Intensive Supervision. These legislative changes are reflected clearly in the following graphs.

The number of new community sentence starts in 1984/85 was 18,227. Since then there has been an increase of 112 percent to 38,705 in the 2018/19 financial year.

The number of community sentence starts peaked in 2010/11 at 54,005. Community Work accounted for 60 percent of these but the proportion has dropped to 40% in 2018/19.

Home Detention is a sentence that requires an offender to remain at an approved residence at all times under electronic monitoring and close supervision by a probation officer. It can help offenders to maintain family relationships, keep working or actively seek work, attend training or rehabilitative programmes. Sentences may range in length from 14 days to 12 months.

Home Detention sentences were introduced during the latter part of 2007.

There are currently seven types of community orders, Parole, Release on Conditions, Post Detention Conditions, Extended Supervision, Returning Offenders and the recently Public Protection Orders (PPO).

Release on Conditions became available as a post-prison sentence option following introduction of the Sentencing Act 2002 and the Parole Act 2002. Releases to Home Detention (BEHD) were phased out in 2007.

The number of offenders starting Release on Conditions orders in 2016/17 (5,135) was more than treble that of the number of offenders starting Parole in the same period (1,690). There has since been a decline in Release on Condition orders, along with an increase in the number of Parole orders with resulting difference reducing to less than double.

The number of offenders commencing Extended Supervision orders each year is very small, generally fewer than 50

Post Detention Conditions is becoming an increasing proportion of all community orders started. Between 2008/09 and 2018/19, the proportion of community orders made up by PDC orders has increased from 25 percent to 30 percent

Offenders serving a Returning Offender order make up three percent of the number of orders started in 2018/19.

An Extended Supervision order (ESO) is used to both monitor and manage the long-term risk posed by a high risk sex offender or a very high risk violent offender who is back in the community. ESOs are imposed by the court. Offenders on Extended Supervision Orders can be monitored for between 5 and 10 years at a time following their release from prison.

To date, almost all Extended Supervision Orders have been for Male offenders.

For privacy reasons and low volumes allowing possible identification of offenders, reporting by offence type has not been provided. Therefore offence type reporting in this section is disaggregated into sexual and non-sexual only.

Parole is available only to an offender who is subject to a long-term sentence of imprisonment (a sentence of more than 24 months). An offender on parole from a fixed-term sentence (a sentence with an end date) is subject to recall at any time until his or her statutory release date, while an offender on parole from an indeterminate sentence is subject to recall for life.

The Returning Offender (Management and Information) Act provides legislation for the serving of a Determination Notice to returning offenders which means the offender is subject to a Returning Offender Order.

The Returning Offender Order provides the ability for standard release conditions to be imposed for a period dependant on the length of imprisonment imposed in the overseas jurisdiction. Returning Offender Orders can be imposed for a duration of between six months and five years.
